Message to the Congregation from W/ELCA

Hopefully, prayerfully we are moving forward leaving the isolation of COVID behind. However, at the end of the day the most important thing is to be safe.

SO.....

One of the services of W/ELCA is serving—especially funerals. That being said, because of COVID, we have had to change how we acquire food and how it is prepared. For the time being we are purchasing the food instead of calling on members to prepare it in their homes and the use of work groups has temporarily been put on hold. Yes, it is true that a small group of women have been doing the serving but only because they have been readily available without a lot of calling. But volunteers are always needed and welcome. Please call Molly if you are willing and available to help.

“Volunteers do not necessarily have the time; they have the heart.”

OELC's Wednesday Worship Fall Schedule

On Wednesday, September 7, 2022, Wednesday Worship Services will resume at Osseo Lutheran with a 5-part series on the Book of Revelation. For 5 consecutive Wednesdays our lessons for each service will draw from what is, for many, the most mystifying book of the New Testament. Our intent will be to consider, reflect on, and give thanks for the book of Revelation as a source of great hope and inspiration in times of persecution and suffering.

Following our series on Revelation we will lighten things up a bit with an up-close look at six notable people of scripture. (The six people have not yet been chosen so let us know if you have a suggestion). This 6-part series, from Wednesday, October 12 through November 16, will take us up to a week off for Thanksgiving. When we return to Wednesday Worship on Wednesday, November 30, we will return to the sanctuary for mid-week Advent worship services.

WEDNESDAY WORSHIP:

Meal in Fellowship Hall at 5 p.m.
Worship in the Chapel at 6 p.m.

For everyone who asks receives,
and everyone who searches finds,
and for everyone who knocks,
the door will be opened.

Luke 11:10, NRSV

I am hopeful that the last part of the above verse from the gospel author Luke is so at your home because I hope to be the one knocking at your door this summer. It has long been a goal of mine to spend far less time in the pastor's study and more time in company of God's people.

Don't get me wrong, the pastor's study is a wonderful setting in which to read, reflect upon, and ready oneself for sharing the story of God's love for His people. However, not many of God's people live their lives within the confines of any pastor's study and it is far too easy to let the experience of faith become too much of an academic exercise.

It is no secret that I enjoy being with people, something that has been heavily curtailed of late. We have a number of folks whose connection to OELC has been less personal than what it once was. It's time to reunite members of OELC in a more personal way.

With this goal in mind, I offer you fair warning... I'm headed your way. But don't worry, I won't arrive unannounced, and I do not intend to violate anyone's desire to remain at a safe distance from the risk of the Corona virus. My plan is to call ahead to see if you would indeed answer the door if I came a knockin'.

I hope to see you soon.
Pastor Terry Lorenz

Pastor Terry Lorenz 715-533-8121 pastorterrylorenz@tcc.coop

As Independence Day draws near, I'm pondering the intersection of being a pastor and an American. Long before it was a country, this land drew potential settlers from England seeking freedom to worship as they wished. This freedom wouldn't create a relaxation of strictness; as the History Channel's website points out, "The Puritans' ecclesiastical order was as intolerant as the one they had fled." And I won't get into here how they treated those who'd been on the land for some 10,000 years. But these settlers wanted to be rid of the state-mandated religion that see-sawed between Roman Catholicism and the Church of England depending on who the monarch was.

Freedom of religion is the top of the list of rights guaranteed by the First Amendment. The Bill of Rights begins, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof;" Both sides of the coin are mentioned: government shall not establish a "state religion," but neither shall it prevent people from worshipping. Also note that the phrase, "Separation of church and state" doesn't appear in the Constitution. According to the Free Speech Center at Middle Tennessee State University, the first use of that phrase is credited to Roger Williams, founder of Rhode Island, who claimed that an authentic Christian church would be possible only if there was "a wall or hedge of separation" between church and state because any government involvement in the church would corrupt the church.

We've seen how church and government can both negatively influence each other. I support keeping government interference out of the expression of any religion (within reason), but I also think we start down an icy slope when we hold our laws to the litmus test of "traditional Christian values" and call this "a Christian nation." It was never intended to be guided by any particular religion, or by religion at all.

I believe there's room in religious faith for patriotism. Despite its foibles, this is a great country and has much to be proud of. As Christians, we can celebrate that we live in a place where freedom to worship was basic to its Constitution. I'm not against the flag in the sanctuary or singing patriotic songs in worship. But like many things in our world, patriotism can become an idol, a false god that has taken the name "Nationalism," with a subset within the church, "Christian Nationalism." This is indeed a great country, and there are many other great countries in the world whose residents can be proud and patriotic for their homeland. I hold firm to my faith but recognize other faiths than mine. We shouldn't expect the world to submit to the wants of a single country or a country to submit to the beliefs of a single religion, especially when members of that religion disagree among themselves about how to define its "traditional values." Celebrate the US and worship our amazing God who became flesh to save us from our sins. And then love and accept those who differ from us in any way. That's what it means to be free, and that's the most basic Christian value we have.

Pastor Dave

Reminder: The Church is Still Open

We wait all year for those "lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer" (as the old song goes), and we fill them with vacations at the lake, camping trips in the woods and flying to far-off places. It's no wonder that church attendance dips in the summer.

But while you are relaxing, your church continues to be busy - with regular worship, social activities, caring for sick and the homebound members, planning weddings, baptisms, and funerals, and ministering to the hungry and homeless in your community. And you pastors and church staff still need to be paid, as does the electric company.

So, here's the problem: The bills continue to roll in even when you're away, and many congregants have not planned to keep their offerings current when they are on vacation. That's why so many congregations face a cash crunch in the summer months. But here are some ideas for how to help your congregation maintain its finances in the summer months. (Continued on page 8)

Pay it forward: Your congregation would love to receive your summer offerings-or part of them-in advance. If you know you're going to be away, plan by offering more in the weeks in advance of your time away from church.

Make it up: Alternatively, when you get back from your time away, give a little more in the weeks that follow to make up for the lost weeks.

Use your envelopes: Are you a check-writing person? Then simply fill in advance your offering envelopes with your weekly gift. If you have a check in every envelope, then on any given Sunday you need only to bring that day's envelope and whatever earlier Sunday envelopes are there.

Use banking bill pay: Lots of people find online banking services a convenient way to pay their monthly bills. Why not your church offering, too? Many online banking services will cut a check and send it to the church for you.

Enroll in Simply Giving: You can enroll any time. Just ask in the church office. Your offerings will go right to the church in the amount and according to the timeframe you specify.

Pay online or via text: See page 10 for more information!

Of course, these methods are beneficial not only for the summer months, but also for the whole year through. Those who embrace giving as a spiritual discipline often find that their lives of faith are enriched, and their sense of joy and fulfillment is deepened. Choosing a regular-giving strategy can help you to discover the joys of generosity.
